Adam Showalter

Managing Director, National Office Investor Services

Adam Showalter is the Managing Director of National Office Investor Services for Stream Realty Partners, overseeing the strategy and advancement of the firm's national office leasing and management portfolio. In this role, Adam leads Stream's strategic efforts in recruiting talent, identifying new business opportunities, and developing essential resources to achieve Stream's growth initiatives.

Additionally, Adam serves on Stream's Voyager Committee–the firm's strategic commission exploring critical, real-time insights to anticipate trends, uncover opportunities, and drive solutions for Stream's office investor clients and professionals. The committee consists of select Stream individuals around the country who have demonstrated exceptional acumen and leadership across all facets of the office sector.

Adam is one of the original members of Stream's Ambassador Program, an elite organization focused on advancing the firm's national office profile. Personifying the core values of Stream, the Ambassadors are essential to Stream's national office platform, serving as exemplary leaders in their expertise, insights, and collaboration efforts.

Having joined Stream in September 2019, Adam has been instrumental in the success and growth of our Chicago office. With assignments exceeding 30 million square feet, Adam has positioned Stream as one of Chicago's largest commercial real estate organizations.
