Adam Showalter

Managing Director

Adam Showalter is responsible for building Stream's presence in the greater Chicago market and will source, win and execute the company's service lines of business. He will also be focused on uncovering and executing acquisition and development opportunities and identifying, recruiting and retaining team members.

Prior to joining Stream, Showalter was with Cushman & Wakefield/JF McKinney & Associates for six years where he most recently served as Senior Director of the Chicago Agency Leasing Team. In his 16 years experience, Adam has closed over 800 transactions accounting for over 6 million square feet with total consideration of over $1 billion.

Adam serves on Stream's Voyager Committee - the firm's strategic commission where it explores critical, real-time insights to anticipate trends, uncover opportunities and drive solutions for Stream's office investor clients and professionals. The committee consists of select Stream individuals around the country who have demonstrated exceptional acumen and leadership across all facets of the office sector.

Additionally, Adam is one of the original members of Stream's Ambassador Program, an elite organization focused on advancing the firm's national, office profile. Personifying the core values of Stream, the Ambassadors are essential to Stream's national office platform serving as exemplary leaders in their expertise, insights and collaboration efforts.
