Eric Kornfuehrer

Director of Interior Construction

Eric Kornfuehrer serves as Director of Interior Construction for Stream Realty Partners' construction management division in Houston. He is responsible for all interior construction projects and leads the interiors construction team on various commercial projects, including office, industrial, retail and healthcare.

With over thirteen years of experience, Eric has diverse project management and leadership experience, ranging from small office renovations, oil field housing, office decommissions and up to $20 million office build outs. Eric was commissioned as an officer in the United States Marine Corps and served four years as a Combat Engineering Officer. After his military service, he spent time working for various general contractors as a project manager and partner, as well as for larger Houston corporations as construction and facilities managers on various office and facilities projects. Eric's unique experience working in these different capacities helps to provide a quality project for our clients.
